1939-46 Emergency Mercantile Marine Medal with three bars - rare special issue for SS Ardmore crew

This issue, apparently from a cast of an original medal, is gilded. It was ordered by the Minister of Defence in 1998 to be awarded to the families of crew of the SS Ardmore. SS Ardmore, which was carrying cattle and agricultural produce from Cork to Fishguard in Wales, was reported missing in heavy seas on 13 November 1940. The crew comprised twenty sailors and five cattlemen. Two bodies were washed up on the Welsh coast in November 1940. It was only in 1998 that divers located the wreck off the Saltee Islands and confirmed that the ship had been sunk by a mine. This medal was awarded to the family of James Power, and is accompanied by a manuscript account of the SS Ardmore written by a relation of James Power, memorial service booklets, a video "S.S. Ardmore - The Final Chapter" and a bronze maquette of the memorial plaque erected in Cork Docklands, as well as extensive notes on the ship and its crew, including copies of relevant documents and correspondence.
