

491

20th Century: Fire Brigade helmets

Circa 1960s black leather helmet with plexiglass visor. Together with a later yellow helmet with visor. (2 items)
€60-€80 (£50-£70 approx)

492

19th Century: African tribal spears

4 African tribal wooden shafted, steel tipped spears including one barbed type head.
€250-€350 (£210-£290 approx)

493

19th Century Toureg takouba from the Sahara and a Yemeni jambiya

The sword with 31 inch straight steel blade, 1.5 inches tapering gradually to .5 inch, fluted towards the leather covered hilt, with conical brass top, in maroon leather scabbard. The dagger with 8 inch curved polished steel blade, decorated on hilt with two white metal circular badges with a design imitated from a Venetian ducat of the 13th century inscription SITT XPEDATOT RECISTE DUC. See British Museum reference 2009,4007.545, American Numismatic Society 1954.237.509. In wooden sheath covered in coloured twine attached to cloth belt decorated extensively in silver bullion. (2)
€120-€150 (£100-£130 approx)

494

20th Century: Indian made Talwar type swords

An unusual pair of Indian made swords with a curved steel blade marked "Made in India", faux leather grip with binding, European style steel guard, faux leather scabbard with steel mountings. An identical pair both blades 29.5". (2 items)
€100-€150 (£80-£130 approx)

495

circa 1870: Tranter's patent double action revolver by Rigby London

Tranter's Patent double action Army revolver with serial number 3646. Barrel engraved "Jno. Rigby & Co. 72 St. James St. London". Overall length 8.5", barrel 3.5", 7 shot cylinder. A fine example retaining much of its original finish. Rigby's also retailed these weapons from their premises at Suffolk Street, Dublin.
€200-€300 (£170-£250 approx)

495A

circa 1885: South African shotgun by J.F. King of Durban

An excellent and scarce later 19th Century South African double barrelled percussion 12 bore sporting shotgun. The barrel engraved with maker's mark "J. F. King. Gunmaker, Durban" Walnut stock with chequered grip. With an interesting provenance showing that the gun was originally purchased by Daniel Nielsen of Norway who emigrated to Natal in 1860 where he worked for the Norwegian Missionary Society. The gun was kept in the same house until 1977 when the home was destroyed by fire. The gun being one of the few items to survive, doing so in remarkable condition. With accompanying paperwork including a Mercury Reporter newspaper article relating to the arson incident and mentioning the gun. Provenance: Mr. Daniel Nielsen of Natal; thence by descent. Note: Purchaser must produce a valid license for this gun
€600-€800 (£500-£670 approx)

496

1917: British Mark III* pattern Webley flare pistol

British Mark III* pattern flare pistol date stamped 1917 with maker's marks of Webley & Scott Ltd and other proof marks. A fine example. Also with a miniature pinfire pistol. (2 items)
€100-€150 (£80-£130 approx)

497

1938: German Luftwaffe aerial incendiary bomb

An empty German World War II period thermite incendiary bomb with various markings including the date. An interesting example. 1.40 x 2in. (4 x 5cm)
€80-€100 (£70-£80 approx)

498

1939-45: German MG42 Light Machine Gun

A de-activated 7.92mm MG42 number 342 with Waffenamts marking and manufacturer code 'bnz'. Complete with ammunition belt and box. The MG 42 (shortened from German: Maschinengewehr 42, or "machine gun 42") was a 7.92 x 57mm Mauser general purpose machine gun that was developed in Nazi Germany and entered service with the Wehrmacht in 1942. It supplemented, and, in some instances, replaced the MG 34 general-purpose machine gun in all branches of the German Armed Forces, though both weapons were manufactured and used until the end of the war.
€1,200-€1,500 (£1,000-£1,250 approx)

499

1939-45: No. IV Lee Enfield .303 US made example

A deactivated bolt action Lee Enfield No.4 Mk 1 .303 rifle. With US property marks and serial number 7300903. Together with 2 bayonets, spare magazine and bandolier.
€300-€500 (£250-£420 approx)

500

circa 1940: Aeronautical wrist compass

Aeronautical wrist compass by Dent & Co & Johnson of Linwood. Marked No. 112. With leather strap.
€200-€300 (£170-£250 approx)

501 circa 1940s: Walther PK pistol holster

A good leather holster for the Walther PK pistol with quick release strap and two magazine holders.
€120-€150 (£100-£130 approx)

492

495

500

LIVE INTERNET BIDDING AT NO EXTRA COST

Details on whytes.com

Extra images and notes may also be found on www.whytes.com